

Trainees Now Qualified Solicitors

The Watson Ramsbottom Partnership's dedication to the training of our staff has recently resulted in the qualification and admittance to the roll of solicitors of our (now former) trainee Solicitors Patrick Swanney and Rufia Adalat.

Patrick Swanney qualifies as a Solicitor into our Private Client team at our Darwen office and will supplement the experienced and dedicated team providing solutions in wills and estate planning matters.

Rufia Adalat qualifies as a Solicitor into our Family team and will be based at our Blackburn office, remaining in the largest family department in East Lancashire and dealing mainly with Children and Domestic Violence matters acting in both privately and publicly funded matters.

The Partners of the practice would like to congratulate them both on their achievement in qualification and wish them every success in the future with the firm.